DEATH COMES TO FREDERICK WALTER AT AGE OF SEVENTY.

One Of Cloverport's Best Known and Wealthiest Citizens Survives Two Strokes of Paralysis and Succumbs to Third.

WAS A MAN NOTED FOR HIS GENEROSITY.

Frederick Walter, one of Cloverport's wealthiest and best known citizens, died last Thursday afternoon about 1 o'clock as the result of a paralytic stroke, the third in his life. The first stroke was received April 2, 1875, and the second on November 24, 1886. Last Wednesday night, about 9:30 o'clock, he was taken with colic, which was followed at 12:30 by the third and final stroke of paralysis. Death did not come to relieve his suffering until over twelve hours later.

Mr. Walter was born, in 1834, at Sobernheim, Prussia. He was a son of John and Eliza Walter, who immigrated to America and settled at Rome, Ind., about 1842. His father was a butcher at Derby for about six years and then came to this city to reside. In the meantime the son got a position with a Col. Kinser, who operated a store boat between Louisville and New Orleans.

After being in the employ of Col. Kinser for nearly seventeen years, Mr. Walter came to Cloverport and purchased the interest of Philo Duncan in the general merchandise firm of Vest & Duncan, after which the firm was styled Vest & Walter. In 1878 he sold out his interest to Wm. G. Smart and retired from an active business life, on account of receiving his first stroke of paralysis. However, he was still able to go about a great deal and to look after his business interests. Between the first and second strokes, he traveled extensively, making trips to Europe, Cuba, California and elsewhere, accompanied by friends. The second stroke came on November 24, 1886, and ever afterwards he was practically speechless and unable to care for himself. His every want was carefully looked after until the time of his death by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. May, at whose home he lived. During his active business life he amassed a large estate, mostly in bonds, which has been looked after by Mr. A. B. Skillman, cashier of the Breckenridge Bank, which was closed Saturday out of respect to Mr. Walter, who was connected with it many years as director and vice president.

Only one public office was held by Mr. Walter. As a member of the city council in 1871 and as chairman of the street committee he agitated the movement which resulted in a three-foot grade on Main street, which was found afterwards to be an improvement.

Frederick Walter was a man noted for his kindness and generosity to his fellow men. In a sense, he was helpful in a double way, because he would not help a man who was in trouble until he had encouraged him to help himself. One of his remarkable traits was his power as a reader of human nature. At the first impression of a stranger he could nearly always tell what manner of a man he was. He was a member of the M. E. church of this city, with which he united about 1878. He was never married.

Mr. Walter's estate was worth between $50,000 and $60,000. All of his relatives are provided for in his will and $1,000 is left to the Methodist church. All his bequests are left in trust, A. B. Skillman and Wm. G. Smart being the trustees appointed. At present it is not known when his will will be probated.

Mr. Walter is survived by one sister, Mrs. Chas. May, Sr., of this city, and the following nieces and nephews: Misses Eva and Eliza May and David May, of this city; Walter May, Detroit, Mich.; Chas. May, Jr., Shreveport, La.; Mrs. J. Scott Vance, Scott, Okla.; Mrs. E. H. Briedenbach, Owensboro; and John Sauer, Lyonsia.

The funeral was conducted from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. May Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. P. L. King, of the Methodist church, officiating. The interment was at the Oglesby graveyard, southwest of the city. The pallbearers were C. K. Mook, of Louisville, Geo. May, of Cannelton; and Walter Smart, L. T. Reid, J. W. Pate, Henry Solbrig, Fred May, Jr., and C. B. Skillman. The funeral was one of the largest held in Cloverport in years.

Exposure to a sudden climatic change produces cold in the head and catarrh is apt to follow. Provided with Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh. Price 50 cents at druggists, or Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it. The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry face, relieving immediately the painful inflammation, Cleanses and cures. Cream Balm quickly cures the cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Miller, of Hopkinsville, were in the city Monday, en route home from a visit at Hardinsburg.

S. S. WORKERS WERE MANY AT HENDERSON.

The Thirty-ninth Annual Convention of the State Sunday-school association held several enthusiastic and profitable sessions at Henderson last week, with hundreds of delegates present. Thursday night $60,000 was raised to carry on the Sunday-school work throughout the State. The officers elected at Friday night's session were:

President, H. A. Summers, Elizabethtown; vice presidents, Dr. J. J. Rucker, Georgetown, John W. Lockett, Henderson, D. M. Sweets, Shelbyville; field worker, Rev. T. C. Geibauer, Henderson; treasurer, E. N. Woodruff, Louisville; State primary superintendent, Mrs. Nannie Lee Fryser, Louisville; State superintendent home department, Rev. George O. Backman, Paducah; vice president international convention, W. J. Thomas, Shelbyville; member International Executive Committee, John Stites, Louisville; Executive Committee, E. B. Kuntz, Bowling Green; J. W. Gaines, Lawrenceburg; J. V. Logan, Ed. F. Wetstein, G. J. Kreite, Sidney Jones, Henry H. Sweets, Huston Quisen, M. Thomas, Louisville; Y. W. Stoddard, Lebanon.

LEWISPORT HAS A BIG STREET FAIR.

Fine Displays of Town's Business Houses and Industries On Floats in Parade.

NEARLY 3,000 PEOPLE ATTEND.

There are very few towns in Kentucky of the size of Lewisport where more enterprise, push and co-operation is displayed among its business men and citizens generally. This fact was signally demonstrated last Saturday, when they held their one-day street fair and reunion. This was one of the finest displays of a town's business, its resources, manufactures and general prosperity we ever witnessed. And, for a one day's show, it can't be beat. The first thing on the programme was a street parade. This was made up of "Rough Riders," Lewisport's military company of drilled boys and girls, large floats representing all the business houses of the town and its manufactures, headed by a brass band, the members of which were the young, active business men of the town. Then came the floats of the drygoods houses, the grocery stores, drug stores, blacksmith shop, in full operation, planing mill, chair factory, making chairs, honing mill with a handsome display of all its brands of flour artistically arranged. This was considered the best display in the procession, if one could make a distinction, for, to our minds, they were all "best". There was a stock and grain dealer's wagon, which was a miniature stock car, a double decker loaded with sheep, hogs, cattle, grain and hay and farm implements. It was the handiwork of the J. B. Taylor Company, the live stock and grain dealers. The Lewisport Bank, the only institution of the kind in the town, was alive too. It let its light shine with a big fire and burglar proof safe, so constructed that you couldn't tell it from the real thing.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 people witnessed the parade. Every avenue in the town was crowded with a mass of human beings, men, women, about five women to one man, and children, all happy, cheerful and enjoying the festivities. Booths were erected on every corner of the main thoroughfare, where refreshments and something good to eat could be had at reasonable prices. The young folks, what a time they had! Shooting balls, throwing confetti and casting silly guesses. It was a continuous exhibition. The band played while "Mr. Hooligan" and his happy family paraded the streets and made fun for the boys. A live fox was turned loose on the streets with twenty-five or thirty hounds pursuing him. Bicycle races, sack races and numerous other sources of entertaining features kept you busy watching to keep out of the way of the fun makers.

We congratulate the managers and the citizens and especially the business men of Lewisport on their splendid success. Other towns ought to take the pattern and do likewise. It's good for any community to have something of this kind once a year. It wasn't gotten up to make money,—just for the people to have a good time, meet and shake hands and have a reunion.

are made for good shooting and good shooters shoot them. There is no guess work when your gun has a "New Rival" in the chamber: for it's the kind of shell that can always be depended upon to shoot where the gun is held. "New Rival" shells are sure-fire, give good pattern and penetration and cost but little more than cheap inferior makes.

A Whistler Adorer.
In his book on Whistler, Mortimer Menpes writes: "Once an interesting figure appeared on our horizon, a French painter. He was Whistler's friend and was held up to us followers as an example. 'At last,' Whistler said, 'I have found a follower worthy of the master.' I noticed with secret joy that he did not call him pupil. This man went bareheaded always when in the presence of Whistler. Whether out of doors or in, no one could persuade him to wear a hat."

The Original Thief.
Even in common robbery the orient has picturesque ways peculiar to itself. A Burmese woman traveling in a third class compartment by the day train recently was reclining in the carriage with one of her arms out of the window somewhere near Sikwhin, on the Burma white railway, when some one came along the footboard and cut her arm clean off, apparently with a sharp sword. On the lost hand were rings with the usual accompaniment of bangles.

RAW FISH AND WASABI.

An Appetizing Dish That is a Favorite in Japan.

Not so well known among the occidentals as soy sauce, but of equal merit as an appetizer, is wasabi, its use is universal in Japan. It serves the same purpose that horseradish does on occidental tables, but is less acrid.

My own introduction to wasabi was unique. I count among my most pleasing experiences in this sunrise land my meeting with Tunio Yano, novelist and diplomat. And not the least item in my debt of gratitude to him is that he taught me to appreciate my raw fish and wasabi. Mr. Yano has been the Japanese ambassador to China and other lands. One night at the Nippon club he led up to a delicate subject on the menu with much diplomacy. He finally got my assent to the statement that a cosmopolitan appetite is one of the distinguishing marks of cultivated travel. Then he passed on a raw fish dish.

I confessed that I was willing to be a stick in the mud and any other variety of sultanian rather than take place with the international diet by eating such a dish. My host, however, was painfully insistent, finally adding that with raw fish, fish, of course, ate wasabi. Now, I did not have the faintest notion of what this might be, but with that raw proposition before me it was comforting to know that at least it was to be diluted with something. I conjured up an experience in taking castor oil ambushed under sherry and sarsaparilla, which, while not a beverage, would grow to crave, might have been worse. I figured out also that with my gaucheries with chopsticks I might manage without exciting suspicion to drop the fish before the fatal moment, and eat only the mysterious wasabi. But whether through cowardice or courage I cannot say, fish and relish made quick and simultaneous journeys to my reluctant palate, and in the never to be forgotten instant there flashed into my consciousness the undeniable truth that in all my occidental years I had been denied one of the most savory dishes in the world. Charles Lamb's "Chimney had jubilation delight over his first taste of roast pig, but that is a degraded passion compared with an Anglo-Saxon's initial ecstasy over an oriental morsel of raw salmon garnished with the appetizing roots of Eutrema wasabi. All honor to triumphant agricultural Japan, and may this far eastern member of the musty fauna take deep root and spread and flourish in my native land.—Harold Boice in Booklovers' Magazine.

Field Arrived.

After Eugene Field's return from his first trip to Europe, where he "spent his patrimony like a prince" and before he went to Denver, he had a little close personal experience with hard times. One day he walked into a leading St. Louis hotel and, squaring himself before the register, inscribed his name in his well-known cursive cigraphy. The clerk had never heard of him, but he read the name with a quick glance and said:

"Is your name Mr. Field?"
"No," was the answer.
"Dinner?"
"No."
"Then may I ask what you do want?" continued the clerk.
"I just wanted to arrive," replied Field solemnly. "I had not arrived at a good hotel for many months. I feel better. Thank you," and he stalked out with long, heavy strides.

Flemingoes.

A writer on flemingoes, which he has studied in their haunts in the Bahamas, says of them: "They are probably as near to the geese as to any other order of birds, having a similar structure of bill and feet and somewhat similar feather character. They are unique, however, in the curiously bent bill, which, though goose-like in general economy, is constructed in every detail upside down, as the bird in feeding reaches down to the bottom and places the top of the bill down. The tongue is also constructed in the same inverted way. The webbed feet are for sustaining the birds in the soft ooze they love to feed in, acting like snow shoes."

A Warning to Mothers.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by Short & Haynes.

is much in what he prints but what he refuses to print. He could easily destroy the peace of the community by admitting to his paper the scandals and gossip of the neighbors. But he stands as a censor and guardian of public morals, and I know of no conditions under which the public is appealed to in a certain measure where the utterance is so free from criticism as the general tone of the country press."

Canada don't fool away much time with the trusts.
She goes for them in double quick order. She knocked out the American Tobacco Company the other day by a simple twist of the wrist.
And did it in this way—by abolishing the "exclusive contract" system.
Realizing that the exclusive contract system which has made the American Tobacco Company so powerful, was gradually rapping the strength of Canadian manufacturers and making slaves of Canadian retailers, to the enrichment of the A. T. Co. and to the impoverishment of Canada, the parliament of that government empowered the Minister of Internal Revenue to cancel the exclusive license of any company, which, in substance, sold goods on the stipulation that the dealer should handle the goods of no other concern.

The effect of this is evident. The American Tobacco Company will be forced to surrender their license to do business in Canada, or will have to abandon their most pernicious "system of exclusive contracts."

The press at large has taken the matter up, both pro and con, and the consensus of opinion seems to be that, in so far as the act operates to check the American Tobacco Company, it is a most commendable one, and, seemingly at least, was effective.

The critics view it only from the stand-point of danger to any government which places so great a power and one so fraught with opportunity to do justice into the hands of one who, as is expressed, is to be "judge, jury and executioner." The New York Journal of Commerce comments editorially on the subject in a way and manner which leaves no room for doubt as to its position. In part

What are Humors?

They are vitiated or morbid fluids circulating the veins and affecting the tissues.
They are commonly due to defective digestion and are sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves?

In many forms of cutaneous eruption, salt rashes or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor, general debility.
How are they expelled? By catarrh of the eye, nose, throat, and Ely's Mucous Membrane Cream.

it says:

The tobacco trust has been one of the most greedy and ruthless in its methods of trying to establish monopoly and kill competition. Its favorite weapon has been bargains with dealers handling its products, giving favorable and profitable terms on condition that they agree to handle no goods of other producers. By this means it has sought through large capital and widely extended organization to shut competing companies out of the best markets, and so far as possible out of all markets, and ruin their business. It is largely by such means that it has crippled rivals and forced them to sell out or join the combination. These contracts to handle trust goods only are the most effective weapons for destroying competition yet devised without direct Government help, and they are the cause of all trade except that of the world-be monopoly. The American Tobacco Company has invaded Canada and begun the process of killing off the cigar and cigarette factories of the Dominion by making its customary arrangements with those who deal in its goods to sell no other."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is terrible to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo,

PICKED UP.

Henry Head tells his experience with an old horse-apple tree which stood in his yard and for years refused to yield fruit. He had it in his mind to apply the scriptural remedy. But before doing so he remembered that he had read some one had told him that fruit trees some times needed iron to make them bear fruit, so this spring he got a lot of ten penny nails and spikes and drove them into the tree around the stump line and now he says that the tree has a splendid crop of apples.

On the train last Saturday between Garfield and Hardinsburg, Davis Johnson had his pockets picked and was relieved of his pocketbook, containing $18 in money. Sam Cadden was more unfortunate and lost his pocket book with $65 in it. Foster Lyons came very near being in the same fix, but caught his bad before it was half out of his pocket. Some of Louisville tough element must have been getting in their work on that train.

Charlie Beard tells a very remarkable chicken story. It happened down on his place near Hardin's school house. It was during a thunder storm. A hen was setting on the eggs in the barn. A flash of lightning struck the barn near where the hen had her nest, tore the nest and eggs from under her, singed her feathers and destroyed the eggs, as he thought.
But the next day thirteen bright and beautiful young chicks turned up, the mother was able to gather them under her wings, and the whole family of chickenhood is wondering how it happened.

Along the same line of stories comes William Rhodes, of McDowell.
He says, during the great storm that swept over McDowell some thirteen years ago, that nails were driven into the limbs of trees same as if driven there with a hammer, and wheat straws were driven into trees same as nails. He found an old time picture driven into a tree and a squirrel skinned as nicely as any human hands could do it. The Hon.
Green W. Beard rather doubted these remarkable freaks of the storm and to satisfy him Mr. Rhodes secured a limb of the tree and brought it to Mr. Beard, who now is no longer a doubting Thomas, and is prepared to believe any kind of an old story concerning that dreadful storm.

Will Gardner, of Irvington, returned Thursday from a two weeks vacation spent at Altou, Ind. In Chenault, his wife's old home. He says he never saw finer crops in that section. Corn, tobacco, fruits and melons in abundance, and the farmers are all prosperous and happy.

Mr. Payne, living on the Warrington farm near Union City, sold his crop of red tobacco in Louisville last week at $4.50 to $10.50, the best price yet obtained for red tobacco raised in Breckinridge. Rousseau Bruner, of the same neighborhood, sold a hog-head of Burley at $17.75 per 100.

Our old friend and patron, the general and jolly Tom Anderson, dropped into our office Wednesday. He has just closed out his blacksmith shop at Bewleyville and gave as a reason that he was getting tired too fast. Says he is afraid of having too much money. It might make him lazy. "Say, I'm awful dry. Do you know of anything?" Only the Ohio river, Tom, walk down and help yourself.

Hon. W. E. Minor isn't taking to Parker very much. He thinks the Democracy made a mistake in nominating him. And he says: "He hasn't a ghost of a show of being elected. I'm a Democrat and expect to vote for Mr. Parker, but I don't expect to make any speeches in the campaign. I'm not physically able if I was inclined to do so."

Dick Owen is pretty solid with the Democrats in Hancock and if you can rely on what people tell you he will sweep the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bentley and their handsome young sons, of Hawsville, Mr. C. Vic Robertson, Hardinburg, and Mr. Jas. D. Babbage, Cloverport, were guests to dinner at the hospitable home of Mr. and Richard W. Owen, Lewisport, Saturday. Mrs. Owen always has a hospitable greeting for her home people.
"While there may be other people just as good," she says, "somehow or other I like 'em just a little better, and am always glad to see them."

Just a Moment, Please!

Why not let The Royal Tailors of Chicago make your fall suit or overcoat?
When delivery is made, there will also be delivered a direct guaranty covering the quality of goods, the style and fit of the garments and the workmanship.
And that guaranty is worth one hundred cents on the dollar to you. It means that you are to be satisfied with the garments when you get them—satisfied that they were made expressly for you, to your own measure—and it means that they will wear well, give you good service, and hold their shape as rightly-tailored garments should.

The cost of Royal tailoring is so low that you might almost think price was the first consideration. But it isn't. Value is first. Value-giving is at the basis of The Royal Tailors' success.
The best for the money always—that is the Royal idea.

Customers of The Royal Tailors are invited to guess how many people will attend the World's Fair at St. Louis. They offer prizes consisting of ten Automobiles, to be given to the ten persons making the closest guesses. The cost of these Automobiles is $13,500. There are also eight cash prizes, of $100 each, making the total value of the prizes $14,500. For every dollar you pay on an order for Royal tailoring you can make one guess; on a $18 suit you can make fifteen guesses, and on a $20 suit you can make twenty guesses, and so on—a guess for every dollar.

The Royal Tailors carry a million-dollar stock of woollens—something sure to please everybody; suits and overcoats for men and boys—ladies' man-tailored skirts and coats—all made strictly to measure at an actual proven cash saving of fully twenty-five per cent.

But the thing to do is to see the goods and get the prices.

Tablecloth Saved Train.

A Brave Lady Waves It

Running down the tracks of the New York Central railroad in a furious storm of wind and rain and waving a red tablecloth above her head, Mrs.
James McKenna stopped a fast passenger train in time to save it from being wrecked by a big tree that had been blown across the track.

Mrs. McKenna is the wife of a paperhanger who lives in a modest home near the railroad two miles north of Poughkeepsie.

She has lived there all her life, her father, William Anderson, having been a flagman on the railroad for many years. She is forty-five years of age and has a large family of children.

Just before noon one day recently a heavy storm passed north of the city, and trees were blown down in various places. Mrs. McKenna stood at her window looking out toward the river when she saw a large tree fall across both tracks.

The woman looked at her clock and saw that in five minutes the Exposition limiter would be due from New York.
She realized, too, that the tree lay so close to a curve that the engineer would not see it in time to be able to stop his train.

Mrs. McKenna knew she must stop that train. But how? Her eyes fell

SHE RAN DOWN THE TRACK WAVING THE RED CLOTH.

In Time to Prevent Wreck.

upon the red cover of her sitting room table, and, quickly pulling it off, throwing books and newspapers on the floor, she ran out of the house and down the track in her bare head, waving the red cloth as she ran.

She rounded the curve just as the train came in view. At sight of the signal of danger the engineer brought his train to a standstill and came down from the cab. An assistant of Superintendent McCoy, who was on the train, also alighted.

"I thank you, too, madam, if you'll excuse my gressy hand," said the engineer, wringing Mrs. McKenna's hand, while his voice choked as he thought of the narrow escape of the crowded limiter. "I'm sure I wouldn't have seen the tree around that curve, and I owe you more than I can tell."

While Mrs. McKenna went back to her children the train crew and some of the passengers ran up the track and pulled the tree off the rails, after which the train proceeded on its way.

GAVE HIMSELF UP.

head and then kicked him in the court witnesses were heard and Judge Wills let Ray off at $2 and cents, on the charge of disorderly conduct. Ray attached Deane because Deane hit a smaller boy the night before. Ray is about twice as big as Deane. Both are negroes.

To The Memory of

Walter E. Riedel and Wallace Lishen.

With overalls on and faces bright,

These boys left their homes,

Little thinking, 'ere another night,

They would lie dead alone.

The roar of steam, the crash of timbers,

The boiler's leaden boom,

The gallant engine's panting breath,

Were echoes of their doom.

Fond mothers, little did you think

The farewell words so lightly said

Would be the last on earth to them,

The lowly grave their bed.

But God knows best, it was his will

To call your brave boys home;

They are waiting now at peerly gates

Bidding their loved ones come.

Though the train lost part of its brave, young crew

And sorrow to your hearts is given,

Yet try to know your loss is their gain,

They have made their home run to heaven.

CONLEY GOES FREE

W. W. Conley came into town from Tar Springs Friday and gave himself up to Deputy Sheriff B. H. Wilson, who took him to Hardinsburg and placed him in jail to await trial on charges preferred by Mrs. Lily Fagen, proprietor of the Springs.

Conley was tried in county court yesterday and cleared of all the charges, which included the use of insulting and abusive language to Mrs. Fagen and threats to destroy her property. Conley was defended by Murray & Murray, of Hardinsburg, Commonwealth's attorney, Gus Brown, was the counsel for the plaintiff.
